ABSTRACT

An educational content communications system that provides a system and method for creating, processing and managing educational content so that students, teachers, parents, and administrators (including staff) can better access, share, create, input, manage, store and/or deliver educational content. The educational content communication system is designed with the capability to create, process and manage educational content within a school, within and between a system of schools, within and between a community of schools, and within and between third-party providers of educational content.